Abstract

In particular, the present invention relates to a method and system for improving the efficiency of computational processes and specifically multiply and accumulate ("MAC") processes such as the DCT ("Discrete Cosine Transform")

5   and/or IDCT ("Inverse Discrete Cosine Transform") using a performance optimized method and associated hardware apparatus.